Subject:-

Question of issuing railway warrants for journeys to non-official members serving on the Government Committees instead of paying them travelling allowances in cash.

Opinion of the Council.

A rule may be issued requiring officials and non-officials who claim Railway fare higher than the 3rd class, to furnish a certificate of having travelled in the class for which fare is claimed. This may be tried for some time before considering the question of issuing Railway warrants.

the alternative certificate has not been allowed. Whether it is necessary to allow this in the Case of Officers is a point for Consideration and decision. Such an alternative certificate would appear to nullify the intention of introducing such a certificate.

3) Of the intention of the ~~rule~~ Rule now under issue is to see that Officers do not make a profit out of the T.a it may ~~otherwise~~ also be required that the number of the ticket purchased may be noted in the certificate to be furnished. This is not of course an absolute Safety against evading rules etc. but such an ~~requirement~~ insistence would go a long ~~a~~ way in creating a ~~fear~~ fear of the future Consequences in Case of proof of any evasion of the rules.

This does not seem to be necessary dtm 16/3

I think the alternative Certificate should go, at any rate so far as journeys on tour are concerned — the object of the new rule is that officers should travel in the class the fare of which their classes — Some concession

15/7/33

NOTE—Contn. Sheet.

Should however be allowed in cases of journeys on transfer – This point may be considered and the Concession necessary suggested

Submitted. The alternative certificate may be allowed in cases of ~~transfer~~ journeys on transfer only. This concession is perhaps enough.

8-8-1933

The retention of the alternative certificate in the case of journeys on transfer only, is probably because, on transfer the officer is put to a much heavier expenditure than if the journey was one on a mere tour. The proposal to retain the alternative certificates in cases of journeys on transfer, would appear to be, to enable the officer to meet the extra expenditure, consequent on moving his family and household effects from place to place. The question, whether the concession implied in the alternative certificate, will be sufficient to pay, along with other items of travelling allowance admissible, the actual cost of such transport consequent on transfer, is a general one. Since the alternative certificate affords some relief in these cases, it may be retained.

I think in the case of Mines under orders of transfer, our allowances do not exactly fall in the scale of generosity like British India rates. In this case, the alternative certificate may be permitted to be retained.
